Opengist pastebin

Linked to our main git forge, we also offer a fully git enabled pastebin service for sharing small code snippets or ad-hoc documentation. You can access it here via your main account. This service utilizes the great Opengist software.

Channel bot webhooks

You can easily link your git repository or organisation via webhooks to any channel on our hybrid chat network (Accessible via IRC, XMPP and Matrix) with our advanced channel bot. This allows getting fine-grained notifications directly to your chat messenger app and easy collaboration with other members.

Atheos web IDE

We are currently testing the lightweight Atheos web IDE for easy code development right in the browser. It will be accessible here, but currently login is still disabled for regular members.

Bookstack wiki

Even though every repository has a small built in wiki, it is also possible to use this wiki here for more extensive documentation projects. It is based on the great Bookstack project and accounts are fully integrated with our git forge.
